

Media/communications

An individual who is responsible for the media relations and communications for a company or entity. This relates to using various forms of media, ranging from print, television, the internet to radio. Depending on the product, service or company that the individual is involved in, their jobs can be hyper intensive or extremely straight forward. Most individuals have very good communications skills and have qualifications in media, marketing, communication or even journalism.