

Biologist

As a Biologist you will scientifically study the life and structure of living things. Depending on your area of expertise, you will be able to study anything from the tiniest creepy crawly to the weirdest plant that has adapted to survive in the most adverse conditions. The range of study is so diverse that there are a number of awesome careers that focus on different aspects of Biology, these include: Microbiology, Botany, Biophysics, Biochemistry, Ecology and Zoology.